On Local Markets

With wagons packed around the warehouses and floors covered with tobacco which was being bought as fast as cried, vesterday was the best day on the leaf market since the holidays. Everybody was in a rush and both buyers and sellers were well pleased with the results of the sales. Although a good handling season is not forthcoming, enough tobacco is on the floors every day to keep things lively and the predictions are that if a spell of wintry weather does not turn up before the end of the week the sales from now through Saturday will be the largest of this season.
